[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]
EASTERN DATES TO AUGUST 19.
Prussian Account of a Battle near Metz.
BERLIN, Aug. 18.—The following is official:
PONT A MOUSSON, Wednesday evening.—General Alvensleben advanced yesterday with the third corps toward the east side of Metz. On the line of the retreat towards Verdun he encountered before fighting with the divisions of Decaen, Lorencez, Frossard, Canrobert and the Imperial Guard, which was sustained successfully by the tenth corps, and detachments of the eighth and ninth, under Frederick Charles. A severe combat ensued, lasting twelve hours. The losses on both sides are heavy. The Prussian Generals Doering and Wedel were killed, and Rousch and Grueber wounded. Notwithstanding the superiority of the French force, they were driven back upon Metz.
A Series of Battles.
NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The World's special says there are continual reports of engagements. They are obviously a series of conflicts unnecessarily entailed between the two armies by reason of their number and the extent of the lines on which they are moving. The Prussians will leave Verdun beyond them, as they have Metz, Thionville, Bitsche, Strasbourg, and other fortified places. It is believed on the best authority that the French will concentrate at Chalons with six hundred thousand men and one thousand guns, and the Prussians will attack with five hundred thousand men and fourteen hundred guns.
French Accounts—A Great Victory Claimed.
PARIS, August 18.—Different battles around Metz were fought by the troops of the twenty-third and fourth corps. About 40,000 French troops were engaged. The Prussian loss is computed at 26,000. The French loss was comparatively small owing to the aid afforded by cannon and the adjacent fortress.
PARIS, August 18.—An official dispatch from Marshal Bazaine just received, claims a great victory over Prince Frederick Charles and General Steinmetz, between Thionville and Colombia.
The Temps to day says Ollivier, ex-Prime Minister, has gone to Italy. His departure at such a moment is severely commented on.
Information received this (Thursday) morning from Verdun reports a great battle in progress near Malatour Point, about one third of the way on the road from Metz to Verdun. A large number are reported wounded on both sides. No particulars of the battle have yet been received. General Frossaid and Beautiville are reported wounded.
Information of a reliable character is received to the effect that a large body of Prussians entered Briey in a department of Moselle.
General Details.
LONDON, Aug. 18.—The Times says all Tuesday the French were fighting their way to get a position against the enemy on their rear flank. Progress was consequently slow. On Tuesday night they had gotten no further than near Stoon, sixteen miles from Metz. These are the only facts positively known.
PARIS, August 18.—Le Phye says two days ago a French war vessel captured an English vessel in the English Channel laden with contraband of war designed for Prussia.
NEW YORK, August 18.—Private cables say Bazaine declared that the enemy were repulsed along the whole line, while German official reports claim a victory on the ground that the French were prevented from continuing their retreat.
PARIS, August 18.—The following is official: General Fussard is reported grievously wounded in one of the late battles in the vicinity of Metz.
BERLIN, (via London) August 18.—In a naval engagement in the Baltic, yesterday, one division of the Russian fleet consisting of an aviso and the gunboats Drache, Blitz and Specanada, encountered a French fleet of four armed frigates, a corvette and an aviso. The Prussians soon withdrew with loss. A French fleet is off Dornbusch Dungeness.

CALIFORNIA.
From San Francisco.
SAN FRANCISCO, August 18.—The three Japanese Princes who arrived on the last steamer, left for the East to day via the Pacific, Chicago, Burlington and Missouri railroad, en route for Europe. They are charged with the negotiation of the loan recently authorized by the Japanese government for internal improvements. Their servants and baggage went two days ago by the same route.
For the first time since the establishment of the P. M. S. S. Co.'s line, there was no shipments for the East or Europe by the steamer to day. Henceforth all will go overland.
Major Jack Stratman having been remanded by Judge Morrison, will, it is said, make other efforts to secure a new trial or a reversal of the sentence of the municipal court, and if his efforts fail he will petition for a pardon from the Governor as a last resort.
The steamship Constitution carried merchandise to New York to the value of $60,000, including $2,000 bibles and $4,000 in specie.
Since the beginning of the year the total shipments of treasure amounts to $22,665,834, against $25,109,547 for the same period in 1869—showing a decrease of $2,743,013. Included in previous shipments this year is the sum of $8,048,947 sent to New York by the continental railroad.
Thomas Gilmore, alias Wells, alias Wilmington, is under arrest for stealing one hundred pounds of pig iron from Greenwich dock. He had sold it to various parties on different pretexts. Charges of grand larceny were booked against him.
The U. S. steamer Northern sails for Sitka and other ports in Alaska to-morrow.
The census reports for the State are so complete as to render it certain that the population of the State will exceed the general estimate; footing up fully 100,000, while the cities all fall below the estimate. San Francisco will not much exceed 140,000, and the township of Oakland and Alameda, the entire population of which were claimed to be fully 20,000, will only reach 12,000.
The orders from Headquarters of the Department of California direct the Commanders at Point San Jose and Black Point to restrict the exercise of the military to points within the new boundaries of the reservation as prescribed by the recent act of Congress, relenering the right of the Government to a large portion of the old reservation to the city of San Francisco for the benefit of settlers thereon.
The distillery of C. Kerrons & Co. has been seized by the United States Marshal. Thomas Dolan has been arrested on a charge of breaking into it and carrying away certain articles necessary as evidence against the establishment while it was in the custody of the Marshal.
The new census will give California another member of Congress.
The Police Commissioners to day ordered officer M. Thon to forfeit one day's pay for using improper language to persons in the calaboose.
Three boxes of prunes, raised by J. N. Patterson at San Jose, were sent to New York to day to compete for the prize for the finest varieties. Not a prune in the lot weighs less than four ounces, and many weigh six ounces each.

French Report of Battle at Metz.
PARIS, August 18.—The French government represents that the previous reverses of the army are fully checked and an attempt of the enemy to interfere with a concentration of corps at Chalons completely repulsed. The Patrie's account of the affair at Metz on Monday says Bazaine was not surprised, and he succeeded in effecting a junction with MeMahon and Trochu.
PARIS, August 18.—The following additional details of Tuesday's battle are obtained from official sources: Prince Frederick Charles attacked our right and was forcibly met by a corps of Gen. Argard, at Relsenville, which hastened into action which ceased only with night. The Prussians repeatedly attacked and were as often repulsed. Towards night a fresh corps sought to turn our position but was beaten off. Our losses are serious. General Beautiville is wounded. By 8 in the evening the enemy were repulsed along the entire line. He had 120,000 men engaged.
Prussian Report.
BERLIN, August 18.—Dispatches from King William, dated Port a' Mousson, August 17, says: In the fight yesterday we took 2,000 prisoners, 17 guns and 2 eagles.
Revolution Expected in France.
LONDON, August 18.—Confidence in time of the revolutionary outbreaks in Paris and the south of France suggested to the police evidence of a combined attempt to declare a Republic.
Repulse of the Prussians.
In the serious engagements which occurred Thesday near Gravelotte, the French held their ground but suffered heavy loss.
A telegram from Briey says an obstinate struggle occurred near Mars la Tour yesterday. It is believed that the engagement was general. Large numbers of the wounded of both armies are arriving at Briey. Travelers report that a vast body of Prussians were thrown back on Moselle by the Imperial Guard. Prussian artillery is entrenched between Briey and Metz.
Communication between Metz and Chalons Destroyed.
A special correspondent writes from Chalons on Monday. An alarm was sounded at 10 this evening and the artillery was put in motion and went forward to Betsmar, but found the railroad cut off and fell back. No communication now exists between Chalons, Metz or Verdun. We do not know where the French main body is. The Prussian Guard is nearer Chalons than Bazaine is. There is no force here capable of resisting an attack. Thus far nothing but cavalry is heard of, and that yesterday was within twenty miles of Chalons.
Occupation of Paris Aimed at.
A Tribune's cable special correspondent writes from Headquarters Second Prussian Army Corps, Friday, 12th. The Prussians have at least 600,000 men advancing on French soil and as many more in reserve in Germany. All talk of peace before the occupation of Paris, is laughed at.
French Claim a Victory.
LONDON, August 18.—An official dispatch from Marshal Bazaine, dated 4 P. M., Wednesday, says:
Yesterday afternoon we gave battle between Thionconrt and Brionville. The enemy were driven back; we bivouacked on the position we had taken. We had before us Prince Frederick Charles and Gen. Steinmetz.
The following is not official, but given to the public by the French Ministry: VERDUN, Wednesday.—The battle still continues on the side of Mars la Tours, and seems to be going in our favor. A number of wounded French and Prussian soldiers have been brought into Briey. Twelve hundred Prussians encamped on the plateau between Briey and St. Jean.
Trustworthy parties arrived here from Mars la Tours and speak of a heavy engagement there yesterday with a large portion of the Prussian army, which they say was charged with great vigor by our cavalry and the Garde Imperiel, and was thrown back on the Moselle. Thionville still remains in our hands.
Conflicting Statements.
LONDON, August 18.—A Tribune cable special says that Tuesday's battle is a crowning proof of French falsehood and concealment in recent telegrams. Palikao declared in the Corps Legislatif that the Prussians had been forced to abandon their attempt to interrupt the French retreat, and that Bazaine was pursuing his route unmolested to Verdun and Chalons. While he was speaking the Prussians were attacking the French flank, and at nightfall one portion at least of Bazaine's army had been forced to abandon the road to Verdun and were again in Metz. No considerable part of the French army has ever succeeded far on the road from Metz to Verdun. The delay from whatever cause gave the Prussians time to come up, and they were able on Tuesday to come up strong enough to arrest the French retreat and bring four French corps into action. A junction of the armies of Bazaine and MeMahon is expected at Vitry le Francois, near Chalons, where the French expect to make a stand.
LONDON, Aug. 18.—A well informed diplomat says Prussia will exact the surrender of no French soil, but will insist on the exclusion of the Bonaparte family from the throne. The political restoration of the House of Orleans is currently reported as probable.
Rumored fall of the French Empire and Flight of Napoleon and Empress.
LONDON, Aug. 18.—Midnight.—We have on high authority that it is the universal conviction that the reign of the Napoleon dynasty is ended. The Empress has packed up and dispatched all her valuables, and has left for England via Hellevoet. It is also believed that the Emperor is on his way to this country by the same route. He does not dare to return to Paris. Prince Napoleon has fled to Italy with his family.
Russian Demonstration against Prussia.
NEW YORK, August 19.—The World's special correspondent telegraphs from Russia that the news is almost menacing. There were demonstrations yesterday of the students at Lostow against Prussia and oppressive measures of the Russian authorities against the German and Lotlach inhabitants.
Prince of Wales favors the French.
The Prince and Princess of Wales are unusually warm in their almost open sympathies with the French. The Prince's feeling is supposed to rest on his great dislike of his brother-in-law, the Crown Prince of Prussia.
NEW YORK, August 19.—Dispatches dated London, August 19th, 11 0 A M, says the Daily News of this date contains dispatches from Brussels which says Napoleon is suffering from febrile monomania.
Marshal Bazaine cut off.
LONDON, August 19.—Dispatches from Berlin state that the French armies seperated at Marsela Tour, and the main army at Metz was checked by the 1st and 2d corps of the Prussian army.
The Crown Prince with the 2d corps is now marching to attack Frossard.
A Chalons dispatch says that Bazaine must cut his way through the Prussian army or be for Quarterly Meeting.—At the last Quarterly Meeting for the Vancouver circuit, held at Salmon Creek on Saturday and Sunday.....Among the members present, who have reached this city since last week we may report G. C. Roe, Rev. G. W. Roork, C. W. Todd, H. B. Thayer and D. L. Spaulding.....

Mr. Belknap, who spent last winter in this city for the benefit of his wife's health, returned again last week. We are gratified to learn that Mr. Belknap's health has somewhat improved, and that Bro. Belknap will continue to labor with the Oregon Conference.....Mr. Belknap, of Salem, reports to the Statesman that he left Salmon river there were about 1,500 persons on the ground, averaging six persons to a wagon. On last Sabbath there was a large attendance. The National Campmeeting commenced on Friday and continued Saturday and Sunday, Rev. Mr. Cornell officiating. Twenty-two tents were represented by the attendants at the meeting.

Real Estate.—East Portland is rejoicing in the opening of a number of new buildings, and in the prospect of an opposition ferry boat to ply between the landing at East Portland and the foot of Yamhill.

Mr. Hendricks of Yaquina is in the city. He says there is material to complete the new road to Toledo.

The Columbia is so dense down the Columbia as to interfere somewhat with navigation.

The French papers are rejoicing last evening over dispatches from the seat of war of victories won by the French. The dispatches, however, do not make clear what the advantages were.

The water in the Twelvemile river has been sufficiently low to allow water. The Wallamet Falls is very low indeed. The quantities is being distributed on Front street, for the improvement of the City Council

Rather Green Game.—A gentleman of this city delights in practical jokes, went into a store and said to the keeper, "My wife will be here on Monday." Says the keeper, "Yes, sir, I will be there." says the jokist. "No, I will be there," says the keeper. Says the jokist, "I will bet half dollar she did." "Done," says the keeper; and the money was planked down, to prove it. Says the jokist, "If my wife comes in here and buy a quarter's worth of stuff?" Says the keeper, "She buys the jokist, "And did n't she pay you the money?" Quoth the keeper, "No, bedad! she gave me a half dollar, I gave her a quarter, and she left the quarter away." It is needless to say the jokist put the "brin in his pocket, while the jokist went away with an expression of countenance never seen except on the face of a disappointed jokist by his own petard."

Sale.—The steamship Oriflamme, which arrived on Saturday, has on board an unusual number of passengers, many of them, we suppose, Germans coming with Gov. Salomon for Washington territory. The passengers, counting only those landed, number 266, and the real number probably over 300. The San Francisco Herald of the 13th notices the departure thus: "The steamers of the N. P. C. Co. are carrying up and down the coast a large number of passengers than usual—the majority of the better class, destined for the ports of Oregon and Washington Territory and Puget Sound—well-to-do people, with ample means to make them from the Western States, many of them bringing their families, with a view to permanent settlement upon the Pacific coast."

Excellent Sermon.—About three o'clock yesterday morning a burglar tried to get into the house of Mrs. John Robinson, at East Portland, by raising a window. Mr. Robinson, happening to be awake, went into the room, and found the burglar at the window. He drew a revolver and fired a pistol shot at him through the window. The fellow dropped down, but got up and ran away. Mr. Robinson ran out and fired another shot, but probably missed, as the fellow got away. He found a ladder on the outside at some distance, and laid it to him to run when the first shot was fired.

Vancouver Items.—The Catholic Sentinel thinks it necessary to defend the really fine spire of the Catholic Church by taking down the Grecian urn and putting up a "nameless ornament," "which adds to beauty." This strikes us as rather odd, considering that the building and the "nameless ornament" belong to the Church. The opinion of architects is that the "nameless ornament" is a decided improvement; whether that be so or not, if the Methodists have decided, it is hardly worth while for the Catholics to go for to take on about it."

Annual M. E. Conference.—The Oregon Annual Conference of the M. E. Church, will hold its session at Vancouver, W. T., next Thursday at 9 o'clock A. M. Bishop E. R. Ames will preside. A number of visiting brethren are expected to be present. Chaplain McCabe, Rev. D. H. Moore, of Baltimore, and Dr. Benson of San Francisco, will leave Portland for Vancouver at 6 o'clock A. M. and 3 P. M. of each day.

Market Street M. E. Church.—This church is rapidly approaching completion. The floor is being nicely planed and will be soon ready to be occupied upon the pews and have the windows finished. The ladies, with their usual energy, are preparing cushions for the pews and will carpet the entire audience room. The dedicatory services, as announced, will take place on the 11th of September.

Departures.—Among the passengers en route for San Francisco, per Oriflamme, we notice the names of Gov. Salomon, of Washington Territory, (with family), E. P. Grover, Governor elect of Oregon, (with wife), H. Semple and wife, Dr. Benson, editor of the Advocate, and others, well known here.

Attractive To-night.—Oro Fino Theater will open this evening, for the performance of "Ten Nights in a Bar Room," and "The Day after the Fair," the latter a musical melange. Mr. Ferrell appears in the character of Milky White and all the members of the company.

THE UMATILLA STAGE ROBBERY

PARTICULARS FROM AN EYE-WITNESS—THE BOND ROBBER DEFINITELY SAT DOWN.

We are indebted to Prof. Plummer for the following particulars of the robbery of the stage and express near Umatilla last Wednesday evening: The robbers, three in number, had selected a place about three and a half miles beyond Umatilla, just at the summit of a little hill. As the team came to the top, moving slowly, the three men jumped out from their places of concealment by the roadside and commanded the driver to halt, and the passengers to throw up their hands. There were on the stage only the driver and Prof. Plummer on the outside, and one passenger inside, Gen. Lawrence. The robbers standing with guns presented, the driver and passengers had nothing for it but to do as commanded. The man who seemed to be leader of the gang, commanded the driver to hand out the treasure box, which the latter replied, "Come and get it if you want it." The leader, addressing one of the other men said, "Hold man, go and get the box." One of the men, whose face was either blackened or veiled, then came and undertook to get the box out at the front, but there being no partition between the boot and the body of the coach, the box had slipped back so far that the man couldn't get at it. The driver said, "you can't get it out this way; you'll have to take it out behind. Mr. Plummer here remarked interrogatively, "See here, isn't this rather an undignified position for a gentleman—sitting with his arms held up this way so long?" At this, the leader replied out, "Come, hurry up with the box and relieve the gentleman from his position. It's unpleasant to hold the hands up long, I know: I've had mine behind me: when you get to town, tell 'em to treat old Brown's nose; ninety-nine years isn't such a d—d long time after all." There was some delay still in getting the box out, the man who was at work at it being evidently ill green hand; but finally the inside passenger was ordered to move his baggage and hand out the box. When the robbers had got the box, they commanded the driver to go ahead, which he did without delay. There was no attempt to take anything from the passengers, the treasure box being evidently all they wanted. The stage was about an hour and a half behind time, and it was just dark enough so that the faces of the men could not be distinguished.

It is their general impression at Umatilla, we learn, that the leader of the gang is the notorious Pat Brown, who escaped a few weeks since from the penitentiary at Salem, where he was in for ninety nine years. He had been seen only twice or three days before on Birch creek. It is reported by a gentleman who came down the following day from Wallula that three men answering the description of the robbers were seen making their way toward Walla Walla, and a subsequent report says three such men were seen yesterday at Walla Walla, and there was talk of arresting them. We heard a report last evening, also, that the stage driver had been arrested on suspicion of complicity. Mr. Plummer says it was not known how much treasure was in the box, and will not be known till the agent at La Grande can be heard from: but the passenger who passed it out thought it was not heavy.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The Colonist says nobody knows anything of the interior of Vancouver's Island, and urges people to explore.

Dalby's tannery, near Victoria, was totally destroyed by fire a few days ago. Loss $6,000. A large lot of hides, leather, bark and materials was consumed.

It is rumored at Victoria, says one of the papers published at that place, that the North Pacific Transportation Company intend to get their supplies of coal for their vessels calling at this port from Bellingham Bay, owing to the high price charged by the Vancouver Coal Company. The Bellingham Bay Coal Company supply their coal at the mines for four dollars per ton, being two dollars per ton cheaper than the Nanaimo. In future the coal from there for the use of the steamers will be shipped here in bond, and will cost the Company about three dollars per ton less than the Nanaimo. If the Vancouver Coal Company intend to keep the steamer trade they will have to reduce their price.

German Immigration.—The New York Herald of August 4th, gives the following on the decrease and probable cessation of the German immigration:

The directors of the German Immigration Society held a meeting at their office in Broadway yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Bissinger presided, and some interesting facts about German immigration were furnished. During the present month 7,571 Germans were landed at this port, who arrived in forty-five vessels, principally from Bremen and Hamburg. This is a decrease of 2,834 as compared with the corresponding period of last year. Since the first of January 59,094 Germans have been landed at this port, 19,187 less than during the corresponding period of last year. German immigration to this port it is considered, will be suspended for some time. The German society, during the past month, expended nearly $500 in aid of German immigrants, and a similar amount was appropriated to be used in the same manner during the present month.

Prologue at a Paris curiosity shop. "You are wrong, Monsieur, not to take this sleeping bacchante, the marble is very beautiful, and, finally, it is by Clesinger." "It is useless thing." "Perhaps so, Monsieur, but consider how well it will look in case of a sale after death."

OREGON.

The wife of Gen. Jo. Lane died a few days ago at her home in Douglas county.

The saw mill of Messrs. Watson & Woodborry, near Lancaster, Lane county, was entirely consumed by fire. Loss, about $2,000.

Ten thousand dollars have already been pledged to the new M. E. Church at Salem, and it is thought success in securing the sum wanted is certain.

The Albany Democrat has the model correction: "We made some trifling errors in our million dollar item last week which we now hasten to correct. The two men whom we spoke of were not brothers, neither were they Irish, and their names were not McDonald; they do not reside in this county, nor did they inherit a million dollars or any other sum whatsoever, and darned if we know anything about the matter. We make this correction simply to avoid a libel suit.

The following account of a rather singular accident is from the Albany Democrat: Onedsay last week, while Mr. Jerry Winter, of this city, was hunting in the Cascade mountains, near Vine Maple Bottom, he met with a singular accident. Discovering a fine buck in gunshot range, he drew up his Spencer rifle and fired, when, by some unaccountable means, the four cartridges in the magazine or butt of the gun exploded and the concussion instantly knocked Mr. Winter insensible, in which condition, being alone, he remained for some time. After regaining consciousness he found that his face was bruised considerably, but he was otherwise unhurt, and arose and walked into camp. Although the four cartridges exploded and splintered the butt of the gun all to pieces, tearing the iron bound magazine open on one side, yet Mr. Winter's hand which clutched the gun in that immediate locality was entirely unharmed.

A crib has been prepared to sink in the Santiam river to form a middle pier for the railroad bridge. The water at this point is fourteen feet deep, with some current, which made necessary the presence of something more than ordinary mechanical skill, and one of the men lately employed on the great work of removing Blossom Rock in the San Francisco harbor came up with his submarine armor to prospect the bottom and prepare a suitable foundation for the pier. Mr. J. H. Moores, who has just returned from the Santiam, says the Statesman, informs us that the river bottom at the precise spot indicated is composed of deep holes and high boulders, or elevated points of bed rock, which makes it necessary to have considerable work done on the bottom of the river to secure a suitable foundation. The submarine armor man is down there every day hard at work, and will in a short time overcome the difficulty and have the pier properly in position.

The Statesman gives an acount of a probably fatal result from cutting a corn: "We regret to learn that James M. Townsend, an old citizen much respected, lies at the point of death with scarce a hope of his recovery. His absent children have been sent for. The cause of his sudden illness seems to have been the cutting of what he supposed was a corn. A chiropodist has been around for several days, leaving many a limping citizen to bear him testimony. It is said that he objected to extracting the corn for Mr. Townsend, saying that in his opinion it was a cancer wart and should not be touched. The old gentleman is reported to have laughed at his fears and to have instructed him to proceed, which he did. Whatever may have been the facts of the case, it is certain that inflammation followed the operation, and mortification has ensued, which seems certainly to have struck the vitals. We shall try to learn the circumstances of the case, and to give the public some practical facts relative to the danger of allowing every corn doctor to practice at one's expense.

The great railroad era has dawned upon this State. The locomotive whistle is already heard in our midst. The North Pacific railroad have a regiment of engineers and surveyors in the field, and will soon have thousands of men constructing the road. Hundreds of new settlers are arriving every month to fill up our State and develop her resources. But it matters not how many come, Rough & Fishel will be ready for them with all kinds of Clothing and Staple goods. They are constantly receiving fresh supplies by every steamer, so their stock cannot be exhausted. Call and see them at their old stand on Front street.

Pearls and Rubies.—When rosy lips part, pearls should glitter behind them. To preserve and beautify the dental enamel, there is no preparation like Sozodont, a compound of the most wholesome vegetable antiseptic, among which the bark of the South American Soap Tree, known to the natives as Quillaia, and used by the Spanish Americans for cleansing without impairing, the most delicate fabrics, is most important.

"Spalding's Glue," will just suit you.

Mrs. Gates and Mrs James.—Mrs Gates—Good morning, Mrs. James. How well you are looking, far better than when I saw you last.

Mrs. James.—Oh yes, I am much better than I have been for a long time, and I am now on my way for more of my favorite medicine—Plantation Bitters. One bottle of it is worth all the Doctors in the world. No more doctors for me.

Mrs. Gates.—Nearly every one speaks well of Plantation Bitters, and I have a mind to try it myself. The fact is, I have no appetite, strength or energy for anything. Mary and Lizzie are in the same way, and lounge about the house all day long, good for nothing.

The Blood in Summer.

The blood deteriorates in hot weather. Profuse perspiration deprives it of a portion of its nourishing and re-productive properties. Consequently, in summer, the flesh loses in a some degree its firmness, the muscles lack their usual elasticity and vigor, and the weight of the body diminishes. These are clear indications that the life-sustaining principle in the blood we eat, is not sufficient to meet the requirements of the system under a high temperature. There is another reason for this, besides the direct influence of the heat, viz: the loss of appetite and the weakening of the digestive powers which it occasions. Under these circumstances a whole some invigorant is evidently needed, and the best and safest is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This admirable vegetable tonic and alterative, acts favorably upon the system in several ways. It increases the appetite and facilitates digestion thereby inducing the stomach to receive and assimilate it considerable a due amount of nourishment. It also tones the relaxed secretive organs and the bowels. Under its operation the process of sanguification, occasioned by the drain through the pores, is arrested, the whole frame refreshed and invigorated, and the spirits exhilarated. The dyspeptic, bilious, the nervous, the debilitated, scarcely need to be told that it is precisely the stimulant and corrective they ought to take at this season. Thousands of them know the fact by experience. Nothing in the pharmacopœia (or out of it) will supply its place—beat it all the trashy local nostrums which some unscrupulous dealers would be glad, for the benefit of their pockets to peddle out in its stead.

Copartnership Notice.

The undersigned have this day associated themselves in a copartnership in

The Clackamas County Contest.

IT APPEARS ABOUT HAVE THE CASE BOARD AT AN EARLIER DAY THAN THAT SPECIFIED IN BOTH CASES.

In the Circuit Court for Clackamas County. John Myers vs. Arthur Warner.

In this case the plaintiff proceeds under the Statute found on page 707, of the Code, to contest the election to the office of Sheriff of Clackamas county. The case is brought before the Circuit Judge, at Chambers, on the plaintiff's motion for an order that the case on board at an earlier time than that specified in the notice.

The Statute by which the proceeding is authorized is as follows.

Sec. 37. "Any person wishing to contest the election of any person to any county, district or precinct office, may give notice, in writing, to the person whose election he intends to contest, that his election will be contested, stating the cause of such contest briefly, within thirty days from the time said person shall claim to have been elected.

Sec. 38. "Such notice shall be served in the same manner as a summons, ten days before any hearing upon such contest as herein provided shall take place, and shall state the time and place that such hearing shall be had, upon the return of said notice served, to the County Clerk of such county, he shall thereupon enter the same upon his issue docket as an appeal case, and the same shall be heard in the order by the Court; provided, that if the case can not be determined by the Circuit Court, in term time, within one month after the termination of such election, the Judge of the Circuit Court may hear and determine the same at Chambers, as soon there after as may be practicable, and shall make all necessary orders for the trial of the case, and carrying his judgment into effect, provided, that this section shall not apply to precinct officers."

The notice by which this proceeding was commenced states the time and place of hearing as follows.

"You are also notified that the above matter in contest will be heard before Hon. W. W. Upton, at the Court House, in Oregon City, in said Clackamas county, at the next term of the Circuit Court for said county, or as soon as said Judge will hear the same, as provided by law in such cases.

"Dated June 17, 1870."

The defendant being required to show cause why the motion should not be granted, claims:

First—That the notice is defective and void, because it states the time of the hearing in the alternative;

And secondly—that the defendant cannot be required to appear and try the cause at a time earlier than that specified in the notice.

Opinion.

The notice is the commencement of the proceeding. It is in the nature of original process, and the Court acquires jurisdiction by its service and return.

This being a special proceeding in which the Court acquires jurisdiction in a mode specially pointed out by the statute, and not by the ordinary process of the Court, the mode so prescribed must of course be strictly pursued, or the proceeding is void.

Hence, a notice that does not state a definite time for the hearing is of no avail, it being one of the requisites of the notice that it should "state the time and place."

If a notice of proceeding of this kind should state that the contest would be heard upon one or the other of two designated days, the notice would be fatally defective. But where a definite day is named, and an indefinite alternative is also referred to, for instance, by adding "or as soon thereafter as the same can be heard," the indefinite words are often rejected as surplusage.

If in this notice the indefinite words are rejected as surplusage, the time stated is "at the next term of the Circuit Court for said county," and may be construed to mean the next term appointed by statute. If the notice is so construed, the time is named with sufficient certainty, and the first objection is obviated.

But the second objection presents a more serious obstacle to the proposed order.

It was argued that the language of the statute which gives the Judge at chambers power to "make all necessary orders for the trial of the cause and carrying its judgment into effect," is sufficiently comprehensive to include this order.

I am satisfied that the purpose of that clause is to give to the Judge at chambers power to do whatever the Court could do in term time. By the terms of this clause power is conferred on the Judge and not on the Court. It authorizes only orders necessary for the trial of the case or for carrying the judgment into effect. That is, such orders as the Court could make if in session, because a Court having power to try a case may make all orders necessary for the trial. The context also indicates this purpose.

It would be a forced construction to hold that the legislature intended, by this language, to confer on the Judge power to do what it would not be proper for the Court to do if in session.

The real question is whether the Court, or the Judge acting in place of the Court, can require the defendant to appear and try the cause at a time other than that stated in the notice.

I am not aware of any case under this statute in which a similar question has arisen.

Reference has been made to the cases tried in Clackamas county in 1868, but this question did not arise in either of those cases.

In one or more of those cases, and also in this case, application was made before any notice was served, to the Circuit Judge, to have a time set for the hearing. Both in the cases tried in 1868 and in this case, the Judge declined to make any order before the notice was served, on the ground that the Court has no jurisdiction of the case; and the Judge has no power to make any order in such a case until the time of the hearing is appointed by the plaintiff, and stated in the notice and the notice served. In this case, and in those cases also, the Judge expressed to the counsel for the plaintiff, making the application, that he was willing to attend at Clackamas county and hear the cause as soon as the jury cases there pending at the June term of the court in Multnomah county should be disposed of.

In the cases tried in 1868 the plaintiffs named the 6th of July for the hearing, but the jury cases in Multnomah not being concluded at that time, the hearing was deferred until the 16th of July at which time the trial was brought on.

This case differs from those above referred to, in this particular; in those cases each of the plaintiffs, in his notice, named an early day for the hearing; and the time of the hearing was postponed; in this case the plaintiff in his notice named, as the time for the hearing, the next term of the court (that being the 4th Monday in October) and it is now proposed to take the case up for trial at an earlier day.

It was a first impression that this difficulty might be obviated by naming a special term, inasmuch as the notice named "the next term" as the time for the hearing; but it is a fatal objection to that solution, that unless the notice is construed to name a known and certain time, the notice will be void for uncertainty. It must be construed as referring to the term already appointed or it is insufficient as a notice.

One of the controverted points in this connection is the construction of the word "thereafter" in the proviso above quoted. If it refers to the period, one month after the election, as is claimed by the plaintiff, it does not follow that if the plaintiff names a day of hearing later than that moved for, the case can be taken up before the time appointed by himself. If that is the proper construction of the statute, I think the act of appointing a later day is a waiver of any claim to an earlier hearing. It is not very clear whether the statute is to be construed to mean, after that period, or after the time stated for the hearing, or after a term of the court. Under either construction, to order an earlier day would be inconsistent with that part of the statute which requires the original notice to state the time. It would of course substitute a new notice of the time, and yet it is necessary to the jurisdiction, that the time of the hearing should be stated in the original notice. This is a different proposition from that of continuing a case.

The language of the proviso is sufficient, I think, to authorize the Judge, if the case can not be heard in term time within a month, to hear it as well after the day named in the notice as on that day. But it is at least very doubtful whether the Court or Judge is authorized to compel the defendant to appear before the time stated in the notice.

No authority was cited on the argument presenting a case where such an order has been made, and after considerable search, I am unable to find a case where a defendant has been required to appear at an earlier day than that named in the original process or notice served on him.

The notice is in the nature of a summons. The plaintiff need not return it or file it with the clerk until the day named for the hearing, and the court has no jurisdiction of the case for any purpose until it is filed with the clerk.

I cannot think the Statute is intended to authorize a party to name the day of hearing and afterwards have an exclusive right to move for an earlier day. Until the plaintiff chooses to return the notice the defendant cannot be heard on such a motion, for Court has no jurisdiction to hear any motion in the case until the return.

It seems to me an unreasonable construction, and one not warranted by the language of the statute, to hold that the party who is required to name the time of the hearing in his original notice can, without any new notice shown, have all other parties set for that time.

The motion should be denied.

W. W. UPTON Judge.

Making a Nation.

(From the New Haven Palladium.)

France has been a nation for ages, since the time of Pharamond and the Merovingian kings. The genius of Richelieu forged its present compact nature by welding together the discordant provinces of warring factions which constituted the France over which he ruled with an iron hand, and established the empire. Germany is only now making, and it may be that no one has been the task to which the first Napoleon set himself and failed, of forging the German states into a nation. The first Napoleon endeavored to effect the aspirations of German unity by constituting a confederation of the Rhine, under his protection. He unwittingly scattered the popular enthusiasm in behalf of unity by pretending to ratify it, but he quickly discovered after his Russian disaster that the princes he had thus created, promoted, and bound, as he had supposed, by the ties of interest and gratitude to himself, deserted him, overpowered by the sentiment of the German people. The Congress which, after the fall of Napoleon, mapped out Europe, gave but little consideration to the wishes of the people. Some of the petty princes, among whom Germany was parcelled out, were, individually misused by private friends their dominions added to those of their more favored neighbors. But Germany was still divided into petty kingdoms and provinces. Even the name was not restored. There had been a German Empire which destroyed by Napoleon was never restored by the allies who overthrew him. There was a Prussia, a Bavaria, a Saxony, a Wurtemberg, and dozens of provinces, each with its own ruler, its own army, and each quite content to remain in its own independent state. But there was no Germany as there was no Italy. In the nineteenth century outbreak of 1848 the German people aspired to become a nation. Their hopes were defeated by events which we have not the space to detail, and while the storm had passed by Germany found itself still divided, and face to face with the French Empire, which had passed from a monarchy to a republic, from a republic to an empire, but through every change still a nation, compact and homogeneous. In 1866 Prussia, led by the genius and unscrupulous daring of Bismarck, struck a sudden and successful blow for the unity of Germany. The whole task was not accomplished, but considerable progress was made toward it. The jealousy of Louis Napoleon was at once aroused, and he who had spoken so much of the unity of the Latin race, and even sent his soldiers across the Atlantic to establish a Latin Empire in Mexico, was only restrained from striking a blow against German unity because he was unprepared. There is no need to approve of the conduct of Bismarck in every particular. He was bold, often unscrupulous, not unfrequently unjust, but his object was a noble one. He found Germany in fragments and desired to make it a whole. It matters not that in so doing he thought more of the aggrandizement of Prussia than of benefiting the people. It matters not that he may, as it is said he does, cherish an aristocratic and brutal contempt for popular rights and popular liberty; the task he assigned himself, when completed, cannot but tend to the freedom of the people. If they exchanged the gentle rule of petty Princes for the stern rule of Prussia and some of them murmured at the change, those who thought could not fail to see that only by unity could liberty be finally achieved and maintained. Before Germany can be free it must be united, and it is because Louis Napoleon dreads a free and united Germany that he has drawn the sword. The union of the petty provinces of Italy was accomplished in despite of his wishes by the tact of Cavour, and he has delayed its final completion by maintaining a French army at Rome. It is because the American people have maintained their own unity with so great an expenditure of precious blood and treasure that they sympathize with Prussia against France in the present war. They do not care to bestow any minute consideration upon the motives which led Louis Napoleon to draw the sword. They are not particular in their inquiries as to whether Bismarck instigated the choice of the Hohenzollern Prince whose nomination to the throne of Spain has been made the pretext for the susceptibility of France. They do not justify or care to justify every step by which Prussia has advanced to the commanding position she holds in Germany; but they sympathize with the aspirations of the German people to become one, and they wish them a hearty God speed in achieving a unity such as we fought for, and that they may be able to maintain it against all foreign or intestine interference.

A PECULIAR PHENOMENON.—The Philadelphia Ledger has the following:

The moor Rauch or moor-smoke is attracting attention in the journals of Prussia. In that country on bright June days there suddenly rises from the Western horizon a dark gray offensive cloud which gradually increases in hight and covers the whole sky, and changes the warm air into a cold, stormy, and leaden atmosphere. The cause of this phenomenon has for many years been the subject of investigation, and at last it has been shown that these clouds are not caused by a change in the weather, but by enormous masses of smoke blown by west and north-west winds from the moors of Hanover, and extending over the the vast plain of northern Germany. The marsh lands, peat moors, and sandy heaths of Hanover, and the adjacent flat countries are burned every summer in order to obtain manure for raising a scanty harvest of buckwheat from the barren soil. Where the moors are intersected by canals the inhabitants carry off in boats and sell the turf, and in return bring suitable manure. In those part the soil is rendered productive, but where the canals do not reach, the cultivators are obliged to burn the turf. This system, however, is very precarious, as the moorland after it has been burned over and cultivated for seven or eight seasons, must lie, at rest for thirty years before it can again produce a crop. This dense acrid smoke, it is said destroys vegetation and seriously annoys inhabitants of Hanover, Brunswick, Westphalia, and the provinces of Saxony, and extending as far east as Berlin, and as far south as Frankonia, is injurious to the interests of one-half the population of North Germany. The only effective remedy hitherto suggested for the prevention of the moor-smoke is the construction of additional canals, so that the turf may be removed and manure brought back for cultivation. In Bremen a society has already been established to advance capital for the construction of canals, but this plan, it is argued, will not yield any return on the money contributed, and an appeal for aid will be pressed upon the North German Parliament, where the subject has already been discussed.

BOWARE OF POISON.—A Hint to Lovers.—The Nashville Banner contains the following:

There is a good joke going the round, of a young lady and gentleman at a fashionable party in this city a few evenings since. The young man was handsome and happy, the young lady arrayed in all the exquisite taste of lavender, roses, etc., with gold powdered hair flowing over her swan like neck. Finding the heat of the room too much for them, they sought the cool shade of an arbor where they might list to the fountain's fall. The music rose and fell, time flew on silver pinions, and after an absence of about three hours our young friends entered the brilliantly illuminated parlors. The lady passed on in the dance, but the young man was slightly taken aback by his next neighbor informing him that round his neck was the unmistakable print of two arms, all in chalk and diamond dust, on one shoulder a large pile of yellow powder, and on his upper lip and cheek diamond dust, bloom of youth and yellow powder, mixed up generally. The young lady's hair was observed to be covered shade a pale. Moral—carry a dusting broom in your pocket.

"NO GREAT SHAKES."—Jeff Davis and Bob Toombs have shaken hands after ten years of personal enmity. If this event had occurred during the rebellion some significance and importance might have been attached to it, but under existing circumstances it was "no great shakes."

Commercial reports from San Francisco to the 12th give the following: "Decline in flour supply, ... 12 bbls; wheat, ... sacks; silver bars, par to ½ per cent premium; currency bills on Atlantic cities, 1@¼ eight cent drafts, ¼ per cent premium; telegraphic transfers, ½ per cent premium, sterling exchange, 48¾; commercial exchange, 49½; Mexican dollars, nominal at 84@85 per cent premium."

Exports of treasure from San Francisco from January 1st to August 11th, 1870, were $22,884,306 84 against $28,119,204 31 for the corresponding period of 1869. The effect of the decreased export of gold which has been the rule throughout this year, tends to give to an easier money market generally on the Pacific coast.

In the local merchandise market, the past week has been rather a quiet one, though some movement in certain lines of goods have been observable. Groceries rule steadily, and there has been a moderate trade in some kinds of hardware. Dry goods dull.

The Produce market is still unsettled. There is some improvement in flour, in answer to a moderate request. Wheat at San Francisco prices unchanged. Late news from the crops of England and France and the grain market at Liverpool, has exerted a depressing influence upon the wheat market, and prices are disposed to settle. It is now doubtful whether the cargoes heretofore designated for Liverpool will be dispatched. Farmers are not disposed to weaken in their views of a prospective high market; and it is certain that buyers cannot safely pay present prices and take the risks of the voyage and the market upon the arrival out.

PRODUCE—Supplies of bacon, hams and lard are meagre and prices are well maintained. We note sales of Oregon meats at San Francisco at full figures. From January 1st to August 1st the receipts of salmon at San Francisco were 1,359 bbls, 2,360 half bbls, 10,650 cases canned, 492 pkgs ditto. Price, August 12, in half bbls, $4@4 50, in bbls $8@9 50; 1 and 2 lb cans $2 25@3 25 per doz. Receipts of other articles of produce and provisions were—Flour, qr sks 37,701; Wheat, sks 39,225; Oats, sks 14,256; Bacon, pkgs 3,615; Beef, bbls 66; Butter, pkgs 1,339; Hams, pkgs 587; Lard, pkgs 1,121; Pork, bbls 2,345; Dried Apples, pkgs 3,578.

The value of shipments coastwise cannot be obtained from any other source than the bills from which the lumber is shipped, as the vessels do not clear for any port unless sailing under a register. The value of shipments coastwise is estimated at three million dollars, being an increase over the preceding year of nearly three hundred thousand dollars. Imports coastwise cannot be ascertained, as the vessels are not obliged to report at the Custom House, except in certain cases.
